We utilise e-learning (NCALT) packages to deliver mental health training which is made up of numerous components (e.g. dealing with mental health incidents at various locations and communicating with victims). In addition, we also deliver a 3 day 'Mental Health Tac Advisors' course which aims to:

- Demonstrate the application of National Decision Model and Risk principles when dealing with a mental health related incident.
- Outline the laws and policies that officers can utilise when handling a mental health related incident.
- Explain when officers should and should not be involved mental health related incidents.
- Demonstrate the application of National Decision Model and Risk principles when dealing with a mental health related incident.
